Ask Wide Program at Session

Blaine Urged to Include Highway Problems in Program

GOVERNOR OPPOSED Believes Broadening of Scope Would Delay Session Indefinitely

Pressure will be brought to bear during the coming week to have J. J. Blaine amend his call for a special session of the legislature March 22, to include other matters in addition to the revenue clause of the income tax law, and extension of authority to the tax commission to investigate income returns for a period of six instead of three years, it was indicated today.

A definite statement was made at the executive office, however, that any subjects enumerated in the original call will be brought before the legislature for action and that amendment to the call is contemplated. Highway matters and other changes in the statutes which might be suggested by the attorney general to correct errors of the last session will be left to the next regular legislature.

Gov. Blaine is believed to feel that although a large number of county boards have passed resolutions calling upon him to convene the legislature to consider road problems, left in the air by the defeat of the first highway bill on the closing day of the last session, it would be unwise to open consideration of this subject which might prolong the session indefinitely.

It is his opinion that if the legislature are confined to action on the proposed repeal of the secrecy clause and verification of income returns, they will be able to complete their work by Saturday night, March 25. Cost of such a session would not be over $8,000, J. B. Borch, secretary of the board of public affairs, estimated.

Probably the only fight of the special session will be waged over proposed repeal of the secrecy clause. This subject has been considered by several past legislatures, but has always been unfavorably received.

A record vote was held in the senate on Sen. Severson's bill to repeal the secrecy clause, when the house voted 22 to 13 against the present, voted 15 to 14 against a substitute amendment introduced by Sen. Bird, annulling the purpose of the measure. The assembly did not vote on the subject, except in connection with other proposed changes in the income tax law.

The proposed extension of authority to the tax commission to investigate and verify income tax returns for a period of six instead of three years, will probably be passed without strong opposition.

At the last session the assembly passed the Edward bill for the purpose, but it was killed in the senate without a roll call or debate. Recommendation of the finance committee.

The governor intends to have all bills prepared and ready for action as soon as the legislature is organized.

Orphan Babe Finds Home After Appeal Printed in Newspaper, Baby Hands Touch Heartstrings

Rev. Richardson Says Story in The Capital Times Proved Home Finder; Three Girl Babies Still Await Adoption

How The Capital Times was instrumental in finding a good home for an orphan babe is told in a letter received today by The Times from Rev. D. A. Richardson, district superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Wisconsin.

"The story in The Capital Times of the baby needing a home," says the letter, "came to the eye of Rev. D. A. Richardson of the Children's Home Society. He called upon the Salvation Army and arranged to take charge of the little chap. The guardianship was transferred to the society by the juvenile court. Clothing was furnished by the Young Ladies' society of the Presbyterian church. A temporary home was found at once, which has now developed into a permanent one.

"The baby hands, helped by The Capital Times, pulled all these heart-strings and the little boy has found his place in the world.

"Besides this, the Madison agency of this society arranged for a week-old baby boy to go to a home, where a mother mourned the death of a newborn babe; took charge of a baby girl, four months old, took charge of and placed an 11-year-old boy on a farm near which his two brothers have already found a home.

"Now it has three girl babies, one to go to a Catholic home, one for a Protestant home and one for a Jewish home. There is a refined 9-year-old boy for whom a home of culture is needed, a husky 7-year-old boy and one four years old, who should go to homes of vigorous work."

Madalynne Is Painted Too Black, Plea

Attorney Says State Tries to Bismirch Even Holy Thoughts

(By the Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Tonight may see the close of the argument to the jury in the trial of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain for the murder of her sweetheart, J. Belton Kennedy, but early today it was regarded as probable the jurors would not be instructed and retire for deliberations before tomorrow.

Jud R. Rush defense counsel, in his first statement to the jury charged the prosecution had violated the first principle of justice by assuming the defendant guilty of the murder of Kennedy and making everything point toward that end. "It seems that this defendant," he argued, "cannot have a thought so high nor so holy, an inspiration so pure nor so exalted, that somebody does not reach out and impute to it some sort of base motive just like a fiend reaching out of the blackest of hell and with soiled fingers, pulling white curtains from the windows of heaven.

"Isn't it true? Has it been admitted by the prosecution that this poor woman in her lifetime ever had a high or holy thought, or an honest inspiration? She is charged with crime—that is all."

Farwell Given Mental Exam By Physicians

Doctors to Submit Report Later; Slayer Improved in Health

Hartwell Farwell, Vienna farmer, who, in a written confession, admitted shooting Phil Hosten, his sister's sweetheart, and then attempting to burn the body on a haystack, was examined today in the office of Judge E. Ray Stevens with regard to his mental status. Examining physicians were Dr. Adin Sherman of the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Winnebago, and Drs. H. E. Bradley and William F. Werge of Milwaukee, all specialists on mental disorders.

The physicians will submit a written report to the court, and in the question of Farwell's sanity is raised at the trial, will testify impartially with regard to their findings.

At the time of arraignment of Farwell, his attorneys, Frank M. Wylie and Frank L. Gilbert, entered pleas of not guilty, and feeble-mindedness and insanity at the time of the shooting. It is understood that these pleas will be used before the jury. Farwell is now at liberty under $10,000 bond. He appears to be greatly improved health. At the time of his arrest his health was poor and he was obliged to remain seated during arraignment.

See Win For Pact In Senate

Administration Leaders See Victory in Latest Agreement

FINAL VOTE MARCH 24 Opponents Abandon Plans For Long Floor Battle On Ratification

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON—Despite their acquiescence in the senate agreement to vote finally on the four power treaty on March 24, the irreconcilables opposing ratification gave evidence today that they had no intention of abandoning their war against the arms conference agreements. Sen. Reed, went ahead on the senate floor with the irreconcilable onslaught in a speech charging that the whole conference program had been "misrepresented to the public." He presented naval figures which he said would prove that the naval and four power treaties taken together would place the U. S. in such relative position as to involve the greatest dangers to national security.

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON—Administration leaders today regarded ratification of the four power Pacific treaty by the senate as placed beyond the pale of all doubt by developments resulting in the unanimous consent agreement to limit debate and take a final vote on Friday, March 24.

Signaling the abandonment by opponents of all plans for a prolonged fight against ratification the voting agreement was reached late yesterday after a series of conferences between the various senate elements. It provides for deferment of roll calls on all further amendments until next Tuesday, for limitation of speeches beginning Wednesday, and for a final vote as soon as the senate convenes the following Friday.

It is believed opposition would center its efforts largely on an attempt to secure by reservation to the treaty what it has failed three times to secure by amendment, provision that out of the various senate elements, it provides for deferment of roll calls on all further amendments until next Tuesday, for limitation of speeches beginning Wednesday, and for a final vote as soon as the senate convenes the following Friday.

"It is the resumption of the original status of mankind."

Measures 'Kick' In Kisses With Clever Machine

(By the Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO—Kisses, some of them, kick up your blood pressure.

So says J. V. Breitweiser, of the University of California's department of education. He has measured the "kick" given one man and one woman who will kiss. Breitweiser said he would measure the linear extent and millimetres of blood pressure resulting from:

The mistletoe kiss.

The stolen kiss.

The expert kiss of the finished flirt.

The soul kiss.

Breitweiser said the instrument he uses is so sensitive it will register the domestic kiss; the degree of frigidity in kisses one woman gives another she does not like, and so forth, through all grades of osculation.

The machine acts automatically, and is an adaptation of the sphygmomanometer which is a machine psychologists in criminology use to detect lies.

Mother And 3 Children Escape Blaze

Mrs. Henry Kusrow, 25 N. Bedford Street, Saves Family

Scantly clad, Mrs. Henry Kusrow and her three small children were forced to flee from their home at 25 N. Bedford st. at 3:15 this morning, when a fire, believed to have been caused by the explosion of an oil stove, swept the house.

They had barely time to make their escape, according to members of the fire department, before the flames, which had been creeping from the first floor, while the family slept, reached the bedroom. Mrs. Kusrow and the children, after running down toward the C. C. road station, were taken in for the night by a neighbor, Mrs. William Schwoegler, of S. Bedford st.

Two small roof fires occurred at the residence of Mrs. Ella K. Cochrane, 602 N. Frances st., early Wednesday night. The first call was at 7:35, the second at 8:16, when another section of the roof had caught fire.

A dresser at the residence of Steve Ray, 221 S. Baldwin, was destroyed by fire at 7:10 this morning. How the fire started is not known, but it is thought a smoldering pipe, laid down by one of the boarders is responsible.

Dr. Prince, in a lengthy report, the fruit of a week's stay in the "haunted house" of Alex MacDonald, declared the adopted daughter of the old farmer was author of the supposedly supernatural fires and pranks among the livestock which drove the family from the old homestead in the dead of winter.

Cat Mothers Two New-born Rats In Same Nest With Her Infant Kittens; Sets Record

Finds Nest With Young Rats; Adopts Babies Instead of Eating Them; Bathes and Feeds Mixed Family

(By the Associated Press) BLOOMINGTON, Ill.—By mothering two infant rats with her own newborn kittens, Susie, a cat in a blacksmith shop breaks down all previous suppositions as to cats. Last Sunday she added five infant rats to the feline population. Soon after Lou White, a neighbor, thinking to give Susie a treat, took her to a nest where there were five newborn rats. Instead of making a meal, Susie started to purr and laid down and played with the strangers. However she remembered her own children and carried two of the rats back to her home in a cupboard in the shop.

Susie and her family were exhibited this morning. She strutted and purred when complimented on her unique motherhood while four kittens and two infant rats crawled over each other on the floor. Susie gave her entire family a bath and carried it back to the cupboard one by one and the first one returned was a rat.

East Side In Agitation For Board Member

Citizens' Meeting for Representation On City School Body

A movement to put up a candidate for the board of education from the East Side may be started within a few days. Though the question was not brought up for discussion, there was considerable talk about it among the 400 or 500 men and women who attended a get-together and election "feeler" meeting in the gymnasium of the Emerson schoolhouse, both before and after the meeting.

The district beyond the Yahara river has no representative on the school board, it was pointed out, despite the fact that this section supports three schools and is about to have a fourth—the East Side high school.

(By the Associated Press) ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mme. Margaret Matzenauer, grand opera singer, today denied statements of her chauffeur husband Floyd Glosbach that he had deserted her and emphasized that she "threw him out of my New York apartment Jan. 28."

The diva asserted she has pending in New York proceedings for divorce on the alleged grounds of infidelity.

The opera singer declared she had given Glosbach $150 a month but in spite of this she "had to pay for every thread he wore." She stated that although she allowed him to "live the life of a prince," he publicly denied their marriage in a letter to a newspaper in Carmel.

Mme. Matzenauer, touching on a report from San Francisco that she expected to become a mother, said she notified her husband to this effect a month ago, after being examined by a physician of Ann Arbor, Mich., but that it turned out to be "a false alarm."

She added that the physician had also written Glosbach about her supposed condition.

The Madame stated she believed a "great love like mine" could overcome all obstacles but, failing, all she desired was "to rid myself legally from this man as quickly as possible."

Rotary Held School For Unselfishness

District Governor Addresses Convention in Duluth Today

(By the Associated Press)
DULUTH, Minn.—Speaking in the same city where ten years ago Rotary emerged from a national organization into an international body, Alfred H. Zimmerman, Wausau, Wis., district governor, declared today before the annual district conference of Rotarians from Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan that "a Rotary club is a training school of unselfishness and service; and its chief object is both to accomplish the practical and ideal betterment of the individual member of his business; to accomplish the betterment of each class of business or profession; and to accomplish the betterment of his home, city, state and country."

"Rotary values men for what they are," Mr. Zimmerman said, "more than for what they have, and for what they can be more than for what they are. Rotary looks upon a call to service as a privilege to be sought, not as a burden to be avoided."

The number of clubs in the district has increased from 43 to 63 since the last annual meeting and conference held at Fargo, and the speaker was confident the total would reach 65 by the last of April when the time limit for the fiscal year expires.

Mr. Zimmerman reviewed the history of Rotary since its birth in Chicago seventeen years ago. "In 1910 the first convention was held in Chicago and the National association formed," he said. The organization grew into one of international proportions two years later.

Treasurer's Office Not State Treasury Agent

Henry Johnson, state treasurer, explained today that his department is entirely separate from that of the state treasury agent. He said that he felt an explanation necessary because of "statements that there are irregularities in the office of the state treasury agent."

"The name 'state treasury agent' seems to be confusing," the state treasurer said. "It should be 'state auditor's license agent.' The state treasury department has no supervision over this agent, merely issuing official receipts for money that is paid by him to the state treasurer."

Attempt is being made to amend the constitution increasing the salary of legislators to $1500 for a term of two years. The present rate of pay averages between $75 and $90 a month, and sometimes lower, depending on the length of the session.

Mischa Elman To Select A Mate In English Audiences; Bases Choice on Old Sentiment

Famed Violinist Is Seeking Counter Part of Girl He Met Long Ago

LONDON.—Mischa Elman, famous violinist, is about to end his twenty-year world tour of bachelorhood he announced recently. He came to England "where souls are most beautiful, to select a mate. His first idea was to select his bride from among applicants at one of his concerts."

"I was afraid there would be too many people at the concert because of the unfortunate publicity given my quest of an ideal bride. Now I have decided I shall play to my ideal, from my soul to hers, and if it is really she, she will answer later at my hotel."

Despite his disappointment at the attention which his announcement to select a bride publicly aroused he says he hopes to return to America in August with a "wife on the arm." In explaining why he picks an English girl as the most suitable for his bride he says:

"It is based on a bit of sentiment. When first I came to England, seventeen years ago, I met an English girl with a face like a Grouse portrait, and fond of music. She measured up to all the requirements of an artist's bride, but because I had vowed to my father to remain unmarried for twenty years, she would not wait."

Mischa Elman.

"I seek her counterpart—a natural, genuine girl, home-loving but aesthetic, with fine instincts and long tapering fingers, which shouldn't, however, interfere with an ability to cook waffles."

"I admire American girls greatly, but here in England, I believe, am I most likely to find a counterpart of that girl of 1905."

Winter Grains Endangered by Thaw, Report

Crops Exposed to Frost, Says Report of Joseph Becker

Winter grains and grasses in Southern Wisconsin are endangered by the thawing weather of the past half month, according to Joseph A. Becker, of the Wisconsin crop reporting service. The mild weather caused the ice covering resulting from the elect storm of Feb. 22 to 24 to melt, but has exposed grain and grass crops to alternate freezing and thawing. Clover and alfalfa is in particular danger. In the northern part of the state the ground is still protected by snow.

With an upward trend of live-stock prices, the financial condition of Wisconsin farmers is reported to show improvement. Stocks of hay and small grains are said to be running short in many localities, while corn stocks, both grain and silage are ample.

Poor condition of the roads is retarding the marketing of potatoes, with the quality of the stored crop said to be good. Milk production is well up to usual.

Mellon Against "Dirt" Farmer On Reserve Body

WASHINGTON.—Objection to increasing the membership of the federal reserve board with a view to giving agricultural interests representation as proposed in a bill passed by the senate, was voiced today by Secty Mellon at a hearing before the house banking committee. The measure provides that the board shall have 8 instead of 7 members and stipulates that the president in making appointments shall give "due regard to a fair representation" of agriculture as well as commercial and industrial interests. Mr. Mellon contended that the reserve board as now constituted was looking after the interests of farmers.

Advertising is No Venture, Says McAdan

Is Now Sure Thing, Declares Speaker at All Commerce Meet

"The Tendencies of Modern Advertising" was the subject of the address delivered by William Douglas McAdan, vice-president of the Williams and Cunningham company of Chicago, at the All-Commerce banquet held last night in the Women's building. The event was the second of the All-Commerce week program, the address by Charles Estey given yesterday afternoon in Sterling hall being the opening event of the week.

About 60 persons attended the banquet, among them being A. R. Brunker, president of the Liquid Carbonic company, Chicago; C. L. McMullen, sales manager of the Fuller and Johnson company of Madison, and other Madison business men. Representatives of the Women's Commerce club, the men's Commerce club, and the Commerce Advisory commission were also present.

The rapid development of the advertising business from a stage in which attractive catch words and slogans adorned the sign posts of the countryside to the stage of being a most substantial and promising business was discussed by Mr. McAdan in his talk last night. He stated that advertising had become a sure thing and was no longer a matter of speculation, as it is so often called by wary business men.

"Business is like a wheelbarrow—you have to push it to make it go," said Mr. Estey yesterday afternoon. "Keep constantly pushing and plugging. Persistent advertising makes the world know about your goods. Advertising is 95 per cent common sense and 5 per cent brilliancy, ingenuity, and cleverness. Don't get into a rut in advertising, marketing, or anything you do. Advertising is telling people. The town crier used to tell people."

Ingrown Toe Nail Turns Out Itself

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

Have In Color Cheeks

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.—adv.

in the best possible way—by word of mouth. The disadvantage of the method is that so few people are reached. The use of ink and paper of people."

Mr. Estey asserted that the best way for every merchant to succeed in business is to try to make every person in a transaction benefit by the transaction. "Know what you want. Don't waste your own and others' money on advertising that runs in circles. Robinson Crusoe knew what he wanted. He wanted a ship. He put up an ad—a shirt on a pole. The circulation was limited but he kept at it despite the fact that he got no inquiries for a long time. He changed his copy, too, as one shirt after another was frayed out."

This Saturday, on Capitol Square, See the Ellwood Tractor

We invite you to look over the Ellwood Tractor this Saturday on Capitol Square.

You have an interest in this demonstration, Mr. Banker, Mr. Professional Man, Mr. Merchant, as well as Mr. Farmer.

Motorizing the farm will promote the prosperity of this district. The Ellwood Tractor, which we believe is the tractor of the future, will genuinely motorize the farm.

The agricultural district in which Madison is located is one of the richest, most consistently prosperous in the world. As it develops, Madison develops.

Motorizing the farm will increase the wealth of this district, for the same reasons as its wealth has been increased by the tobacco planter, the reaper, and the sulky plow.

See how the Ellwood Tractor will motorize the farm. Note how every type of farm implement, cultivator, plow, harrow, or wagon, makes a sturdy, compact unit with the tractor.

Observe how ONE man directs and controls the entire mechanism.

Note the POWER that drags two plows at three miles an hour.

Measure the CLEARANCE that enables you to cultivate shoulder-high corn.

Realize that this tractor enables the farmer on the small farm, with forty-acre fields, to do ALL his work, actually eliminating two or three of his horses.

The Ellwood Tractor is Madison-made, Madison-invented, backed by Madison men.

It is the tractor which is adapted to the farm work of the Middle West.

Ask us more about it.

Machinist Hits Fire and Police Men Who Work on Days Off; Sends Protest to Commission

If Men in Public Service Can't Live On Job They Have Let Some One Get Them Who Can, His Plea

The following letter, protesting against police and firemen, who work for wages on their days off, is a copy of one sent by the writer to the board of fire and police commissioners. The writer contends that with laborers out of work here, if the men in the public service cannot make enough to live on the jobs they have some one else should be given a chance to get them who can. The letter follows: [To the Editor]—Are there no rules or regulations covering firemen and policemen in regards to working on their days off at other jobs? I am a machinist by trade but owing to slack times I have not worked at it for over two years. I am a married man with a wife and two children to support, rent to pay and coal to buy. During the last three years I have made less than $900 a year, and were it not for what money I saved during the good times, God only knows what I would be doing now. I am ready and willing to do any kind of work and on the job I am now on—laboring—I started three weeks ago at 45 cents an hour. Now I am getting 25 cents an hour and nine hours' work a day. Compare these wages with $1,620-$1,740 a year rain or shine and then see there is no wonder why men are talking about the fellows working on the fire and police departments, who on their days off do odd jobs for those who want them. The work they do consists of driving funeral cars, ice cream wagons, repairing and dicker-ing in automobiles and in some cases unloading lumber—not for themselves but for others. This is what I call stealing the bread out of the mouths of those who are needy. They are willing to work but can not find anything to do. Don't you suppose that those odd dollars would buy groceries and provisions for some poor devil just as well as for those fellows who are sure of their regular salaries? If these men in the public service can not make enough to live on at the jobs they have, let some one have the chance to get them who can. This is a copy of the letter which I sent the board of police and fire commissioners and thinking it is something that the public ought to know, I am sending this to you asking that you print it, if you can spare the space. Yours very truly, N. O. HOGG. o/o Gen. Del., Madison, Wis.

"This challenge has been issued," declared Sandow, "with a view of demonstrating that wrestling is superior to the fistie art in self-defense. In the event that the challenge is accepted, I am willing to wager $5,000 personally that Lewis will defeat Dempsey before a qualified referee within 20 minutes." Jack Dempsey Ready. (By the Associated Press) NEW YORK—Jack Dempsey is ready to meet Ed Lewis in either a straight wrestling bout or a mixed bout of boxing and wrestling, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, declared today. Badger Cheese Contributed to Russ Relief

Two Factories Have Pledged Help; Drive in State Still is On

"Wisconsin cheese," the best in the world, is expected to save thousands of human lives in the Volga valley.

The statement was made by W. W. Liggett, acting secretary of the American Committee for Russian famine relief, through which local organizations all over Wisconsin are raising funds and supplies for distribution in Russia by the American Friends Service committee (Quakers).

"Cheese is the best condensed food there is," Mr. Liggett said. "I wish we might have hundreds of tons of it."

According to Mr. Liggett, two Wisconsin cheese factories have already pledged substantial contributions of cheese for the famine relief drive. Others are expected to follow their example.

Not until next week will it be possible to forecast the result of the American committee's appeal for famine relief in Wisconsin, Mr. Liggett said. The state has been asked to raise $260,000 in cash, amounting to 10 cents per capita in addition to food, medicines and clothing.

All commodity contributions will be transported by the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie road, providing they are consigned to the American committee for Russian famine relief, care of the Soo Terminal warehouse, Chicago. Grain in car lots should be sent to the American committee in care of the Updike Grain company, Chicago, Mr. Liggett said.

Normal Regents Consider Four Year Course Plan

The proposal for four year courses in Wisconsin's normal schools, leading to a college degree will be considered by the state board of normal regents and by normal school presidents at their meeting here today, William Kittie, secretary of the board, announced. No definite stand on this matter, which involves the question of extending college courses in teacher training institutions of the state, has been taken by the regents. During the last session of the legislature, a bill to provide regular college degrees to normal school graduates after completion of a four year course, was defeated in the lower house. The assembly took the stand that a great added expense would result, from what they anticipated would be gradual transformation of normal schools into colleges.

Vehicles Run By Wireless Is Invented By Two University Men; To Give Demonstration

Invention Shows Possibilities of Radio Control Student Declares; Wave Lengths Govern Movement of Tiny Car

By PEARL HAGENS.
A little vehicle that runs by wireless and which will start or stop at the pleasure of the operator when he touches the key of a transmitter in another room, has been constructed to demonstrate the possibilities of radio control by Hallett M. Germond and William Lynn, juniors in the course of electrical engineering at the University of Wisconsin.

Not a trace of visible apparatus connects the transmitter with the car. Control is obtained by means of a select wave length apparatus. The car is put in one room, the transmitter in another. When the operator presses the key of the transmitter, immediately the car begins to move and keeps on moving until the pressure is removed.

The car was constructed primarily to demonstrate radio control before "Signal," a student club composed of men who attended Camp Vail last summer, and to work out some experiments along this line.

"We were asked to furnish a program for the club," said Mr. Germond. "We turned to the interesting field of radiodynamics, as the art of radio control of automotive devices is called. Our experiment with the car was carried out on the same principle as the radio controlled torpedoes which army and navy engineers are working to perfect."

"Radiodynamics is a fertile field of endeavor in which the surface has only been touched. Future experimenters will discover more uses for radio control. We engineers may dream of the day when the farmer can sit in an easy chair on his veranda and control his tractors out in the fields by wireless."

The young men started to construct the car in November, but they are not satisfied with their efforts. They are working to extend the control to include such features as to turn the car to right, to left, or to reverse.

The apparatus is of simple home-made construction and was designed to show that elaborate materials are not necessary to conduct such an experiment. The car proper is a wooden framework mounted on wheels. Two four-volt storage batteries furnish the current for driving motor. The decoder is made out of an old door bell. The controller consisted of a small cardboard tube filled with iron filings. A telegraph sounder was equipped with a contact device to close the circuit through the motor.

No Action Expected On Daylight Saving Plan

Though last minute action may be taken by the common council to present the daylight saving question to the people at the spring election, it is rumored in city circles that no action will be taken. The decisive vote of two years ago, when the people turned down the proposition by a vote of 5,116 to 2,645 is believed to have considerable to do with the policy of letting the question lie dormant. It is believed by city officials that the people of Madison do not want the daylight saving plan in effect in Madison.

Gasoline for an Empire

THE eleven states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an empire in area, wealth, population, and industrial activities. It constitutes the largest and most important market for petroleum products on the American continent.

To win such a market, to gain the confidence, and enjoy the respect of this buying public is a task worth while.

To achieve this objective, to merit the confidence of its patrons, and to be prepared at all times to serve them, has been for many years the dominating idea of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). To make its service more comprehensive it manufactures special grades of its products to meet special requirements.

For example, take gasoline. Under this general head come fifteen different products, each made with scientific precision to meet a specific, well-defined need.

For the motorist the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) makes Red Crown Gasoline. This product is made for the sole purpose of generating power in the modern internal combustion engine. It has a chain of boiling point fractions carefully adjusted and graduated with scientific exactness to enable you to get from your engine all the power it can develop.

In attacking the problem of supplying motor gasoline for 30 million people, three main points were considered—

First—Quality: The gasoline must function perfectly: to do this nothing short of scientific precision is sufficient.

Second—Quantity: To meet the ever-growing demands for motor fuel, the yield of gasoline must be great if the cost is to be kept down.

Third—Distribution: To make it easy for the consumer, wherever he may live, to secure 1 gallon or 1000 gallons of gasoline, whenever he may need it.

In Red Crown Gasoline is symbolized the ideals animating the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Red Crown is highly efficient—it is produced in large quantities, and sold at a price that is fair to all.

Red Crown has achieved leadership by rendering a maximum of service just as the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has become a leader in the industry by rendering a definite, positive, essential service.

It is by such standards that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) measures its usefulness, and by maintaining such standards it intends to continue this leadership by meriting the confidence and respect of the public it serves.

The Theaters

Connecticut Yankee is Proving Success Even in England

Winfield R. Sheehan, general manager for William Fox, after spending two months in England and on the continent studying the film market, reported that, despite its satire on royalty, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" was a big hit in London. "Queen of Sheba" also was shown in the British capital to crowded houses. The picture is now at the Parkway.

An amusing, paradoxical and essentially bizarre entertainment is that of the Greenwich Village Follies, to be seen at the Parkway theater two nights, commencing Tuesday, Mar. 21. The star of John Murray Anderson, accomplished almost wholly by means of curtained backgrounds, lighting and color masses, is in the nature of true artistic creation.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

A picture with a vital, pulsating story, with an insight into one of the great factors of the present day is found in "Enchantment," a Cosmopolitan production starring Marion Davies, which will open at the Majestic theater today. Miss Davies shows us the real modern "flapper," that product of present day civilization. She is spoiled, but she has ideas of her own and knows how to carry them out. Men are much attracted to her. They beseege her with invitations to dinner and dances, and her parents decide she must be "tamed." The story tells how this doctrine was carried out.

AT THE STRAND.

Thomas H. Ince's greatest dramatic achievement, "Hail the Woman," is now being shown at the Strand theater. The story deals with Oliver Beresford (Theodore Roberts), a grim and bigoted New England farmer, whose uncompromising creed, "Men and their sons first," disposes harshly of woman's destiny.

AT THE GRAND.

Two stars, popular locally, will share honors on the Grand screen for the balance of the week. Lewis Stone supported by Wallace Berry, Ethel Grey Terry and others, will be seen in a screen version of James Oliver Curwood's story, "The White Mouse." William Russell, supported by Miss Ruth Renick, will be seen in "Children of the Night." "The White Mouse" deals with a phase of the work of the Northwest mounted police, with Mr. Stone in the role of a sergeant of police who "gets his man." In the Russell picture, "Big Bill," is seen in the role of a financier, a Wall street power, who has a singularly strenuous career.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Nine elf-like young misses billed as the Wright Dancers will headline the new vaudeville show which opens at the Orpheum tonight and remains for the balance of the week. "The Dance Voyage" is assisted by Walter Peterson, a tenor soloist, who will describe in song a trip in fancy through many climes in periods of the past and present. Helen Pachard, costumed as a young Indian chief, in a character dance, and Nita Susoff, in a whirlwind Russian number are the stars of the outfit. Next of importance will be Johnny Coulon, former Bantam weight champion of the world, offering his "The man you cannot lift" act which has been the sensation of Europe. Howard and Fields, assisted by Oscar Lee, in a "Ragtime Dining Car" offering; Harry Bussey, the versatile funster; The Jack Hughes Duo, instrumental virtuosi and The Elliott-Johnson Revue, presenting a song and dance surprise, together with Pathe News and Topics of the Day films.

Burkhardt Arrives To Coach Haresfoot

Charles Burkhardt, assistant coach of the 1922 Haresfoot production, "Kitty Corner," arrived in Madison Wednesday afternoon to take charge of the chorus work in the show. He will act as assistant to Harry W. Spingold and will remain in Madison until the show has been staged.

At present, in addition to his coaching work, Burkhardt is traveling in vaudeville, and has played many leading roles in legitimate productions. For many years he was associated with Aron Hoffman, and he also was with Weber and Fields, taking Field's place in "Hip Hip Hooray."

Spingold and Burkhardt have worked together for thirty years in various fields. The two were instrumental in creating the popularity of the Carter De Haven's.

News Notes From Movieland

By DAISY DEAN

Anita Loos, the well-known scenario writer who with her husband, John Emerson, is responsible for so many of the pictures that are shown at the Parkway, has fallen for the radio fad. Miss Loos who looks more like a juvenile lead than a long-married wife and author, recently gave a lesson in photoplay writing which was heard by some 200,000 wireless fans scattered over the United States and Canada. She spoke from Newark, N. J., and Miss Talmadge heard the talk in Chicago.

"Polly of the Follies" is Connie's last picture written by the Emerson-Loos combination.

Amnesty Plea Starts Row in House Hearing

Rep. London for Release of All War-Time Offenders

Pointing out the horrible conditions prevailing in Armenia, where she spent some time with the American Near East Relief workers, and appealing for support of the relief work by the people of Madison, Miss Elizabeth B. Kelley, former member of the university economics department spoke before the Rotary club this noon. The attendance was small, owing to the large number of the Rotarians who are attending the convention in Duluth.

Miss Kelley told of the suffering of the small children in Turkey, describing the conditions under which they tried to exist.

"We took in children who were naked and starved, and fed them and clothed them as best we could," Miss Kelley said, "feeding only the very sick babies with milk. The children who were comparatively well used to beg to be sick, so that they could have milk."

The Near East Relief has 127 orphanages, and is caring for 22,000 children.

U. S. Jury to Decide Sunday Contract Case

The validity of a contract for merchandise, the order for which was given in writing on Sunday, will be decided by a jury in the U. S. court here in the case of the Curlew Clothing Co., St. Louis, versus Max Swerdloff, Edgerton clothier. Arguments were finished this morning and the jury retired about noon. It is a suit for the collection of $4,100 for goods accepted and $512 for goods refused.

According to arguments of attorneys, Mr. Swerdloff went to Milwaukee in April, 1920, on invitation of Mr. Goldwasser, salesman for the plaintiff company. The order for fall delivery goods was given in the Wisconsin hotel on Sunday. Both men were Jews, observing Saturday as the Sabbath.

The plaintiff, by E. J. Reynolds, Madison, its attorney, charges that Mr. Swerdloff accepted the first shipment of goods, but when the market began to fall, he cancelled the remainder of the order. It contends that, though the order for goods was given on Sunday, the contract was not officially made until the order was received at the St. Louis office on Tuesday.

The defendant, assisted by L. E. Gettle, Madison attorney, charged that the company knew the contract was made on Sunday, and that its reply to Mr. Swerdloff said: "Your order of April 26 received." He pointed out that the order was dated "April 25" which was Sunday.

Ould St. Patrick Tells How He Rid Erin of Schnakes So The Good Folk Could Schlape

Patron Saint of Ireland Interviewed to Get Story of Campaign Against Bad Fairies; Churches Celebrate Mass Friday

"I didn't think they allowed no reporters in Hiven," St. Patrick remonstrated mildly, adjusting the belt of his white robe over his alderman's bay-window, and pulling vigorously at his old clay pipe.

"Surely a man of your public experience doesn't object to being interviewed," cajoled a Capital Times reporter.

"Shure, you're a bright boy to get in, and I couldn't refuse anything to a clever lad," the saint returned, cheerfully.

"Well, your reverence, I'd like to ask you just how you managed to drive the snakes out of Ireland. I've always wondered whether the story that we usually hear about your driving them into the sea is all there really was to it. Tell me, all about it."

"So they say I drove them poor little snakes into the sea!" said St. Patrick, warming up to the subject and lapsing into Irish brogue that they had tried to train him out of in heaven. "I niver done no such thing!"

"The Irish has always been fond of big meetin's with a speaker bhoys and lots of shenanigan. Well, they country was overcrowded with these schnakes, and they held meetin's all over the country and made so much noise that the good people couldn't schlape. Somebody had to do something about it, so I took the job upon meself."

"The schnakes at this time were holdin' a great mass-meeting of all the schnakes in Ireland, so I went to address that same."

"I was a fine lookin' young feller in them days with ellyquency in me eye, and I orated to them schnakes. I told them about how, in the years that was to come, there'd arise a race of folk that was half human and half schnake, that would make good ould Ireland intolerable, insufferable, and entirely poisonous to schnakes of any kind. There'd be too much competition for them."

"The poor little schnakes wept big tears that went streamin' down their little scaly cheeks. Pretty soon ever wan of them got up and fled away until they came to the sea, and thin, murmurin' brokenly, 'For the sake of our children's children,' they all jumped in and were entirely drowned."

"But what were those kind of people that would give the snakes too much competition?" cried the reporter.

St. Patrick gave a big, slow wink. "I'dwoud be thin politishuns," he said.

St. Patrick's day, tomorrow, will be celebrated in many and diverse ways, from the high school boys and girls who go to school on the morning of March 17 in green stockings and to St. Patrick's parties in the evening, to the devout Irishman who attends two masses on the holy day to pray for the protection of the good saint.

Two of the four Catholic churches of Madison will have special celebrations of the day. An elaborate program will be put on by St. Raphael's church in thanksgiving for the attainment of Irish freedom, including a solemn high mass and sermon at 8 a. m. and an Irish Feis at 8:15 p. m. will be held in the Father Petit school auditorium.

A choral number, "St. Patrick's Day," will be sung by St. Raphael's choristers, to open the program. Rev. T. B. Johnson, the pastor, will give the address of the evening. An original poem, composed for the occasion, will be recited by James Martin Fox, and a dramatic sketch, "An Evening in Ireland," will include many features of Irish life. Leading parts will be taken by Misses Rose Gorman, Helen Brown and Catherine Devine. Irish folk songs and ballads, harp numbers, and Irish dancing will be presented by members of the church. The program will conclude with the singing of "The New Ireland," Victor Herbert's marching song, by St. Raphael's quartette.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley Describes Conditions in Armenia

WASHINGTON—Declaration by Rep. Meyer London, Socialist, New York, that if he had the power, he would release all war prisoners convicted of violence because of sincere opposition to war, started a wordy row today before the House judiciary committee. Appearing in support of his resolution, which would recommend to Pres. Harding the granting of amnesty to 113 political prisoners, Mr. London and seven other witnesses were trying to speak at once above the din, he shouted his opinion. There was a ripple of applause from the crowd loudly composed of women.

"By that you stand here and advocate violence," Rep. Yates, declared but Mr. London disclaimed any such intention.

Hungry Boar Invades Swiss Football Field

GENEVA—Winter in the Swiss Alps has been so severe that scores of wild boars, wolves and other animals have been driven to the towns and lowlands in search for food. The authorities are offering bounties for their death or capture. Recently several thousand persons at a football match near the western frontier were thrown into a panic by the sudden appearance on the field of a huge tusked boar. The animal charged the players and bowled several of them over. A gendarme rushed upon the field and ended the animal's escapade with a revolver shot.

Feldman; vice president, F. J. Greenough; secretary E. J. Campbell. An executive board with one representative from each ward will be chosen.

The Misses Elizabeth Becker and Elcano, Becker assistants in the halls and commons, left this morning to spend two days in Milwaukee.

Father H. C. Hengell. At 7 p. m. the Newman club, the organization of Catholic students, will present a program of special music and declamations.

Greed for Diamonds Held Curse of Today

NEW YORK—"Greed for diamonds and furs is the curse of the times," Judge Gibbs of the Bronx county court declared in suspending sentence on Paul C. Zukor, millinery dealer, who pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods. "Modern women," he said, "are using the dollar mark to steer their husbands into jail." Judge Gibbs' condemnation of modern tendencies was delivered after Mrs. Zukor, the prisoner's wife, had been called to the stand. Attired in an expensive fur coat and her fingers covered with rings, she denied that she had knowledge of her husband's crime.

Meanwell Is Injured In Auto Crash

U. W. Basket Coach Hurt in Collision; Hit by Glass

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach, is recovering from minor injuries which he received yesterday when his car collided with another machine at the corner of West Johnson and Carroll streets. He suffered several bruises and cuts which were inflicted by flying windshield glass. The injuries were not serious.

Doctor Meanwell was driving toward the square and had the right of way at the crossing when another car headed toward State street suddenly crashed into his machine. "I made a couple spins and finally landed up against a big elm tree," he said. "The machines were wrecked a little, but I guess both the car and myself will recover all right in a short time."

Misses Arthur Larsen, Peter Anderson and Ernest Manz, will be hostesses this evening for the Ladies' Aid society.

Primary to Eliminate 6 in Council Race

Three aldermanic candidates from the ninth ward, two from the sixth ward, and one from the seventh ward will be eliminated from the race in the primary election next Tuesday. The law entitles the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes to have their names on the ballot at the regular election on April 4, providing that the candidate receiving the second largest number of votes has at least two per cent of the vote cast for that office at the last regular election.

The voting at the primary will be only upon mayor, city treasurer, aldermen and justices of the peace. Members of the school board and the judiciary are elected at the regular election.

Senate Sets April 28 As Election Day

The date for the spring election for members of administrative boards and for Badger officers was set for Friday, April 28, at a special meeting of the Student Senate held last night in the Law building. Those positions which will be open for election this spring are: editor-in-chief of the Badger, business manager of the Badger, entirely new athletic board, executive for two non-W men who hold one two sophomores and one freshman for the Badger board, one sophomore and two juniors for the Academic board, two sophomores and two juniors for the Union board, and as a result of the recent agreement of the Cardinal staff and Board of control, two sophomores and two juniors for the Cardinal Board of Control. The members of the Cardinal Board will take office immediately except in the case of one junior who will enter office the following fall.

Report for March 16

Wheat Prices Higher After Initial Drop

Sale of Rails Resumed On Stock Market

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—Although the wheat market here opened lower today in sympathy with new declines at Liverpool, an upturn in prices soon took place. The advance resulted from a little speculative buying which disclosed that the amount of selling orders had dwindled to relatively small proportions. Talk was current too that despite reported weakness of British markets the actual difference between Chicago and Liverpool values of late had widened instead of narrowed. The opening here, which varied from 1/2 to 1 1/2c lower, May 1.31 1/2 and July 1.13 1/2, was followed by a rise to above yesterday's finish.

Subsequently signs of export business, scantiness of receipts at Minneapolis and adverse crop reports from Ohio together with absence of selling pressure here helped to lift values in a decided manner. The close was strong 2 cents to 3 cents net higher, with May 1.35 1/2 and July 1.16 1/2.

CORN—Corn paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged at 7 1/2c lower, May 59 1/2 and the corn market sagged a trifle more and then scored slight general gains.

Industries were active buyers and with receipts light prices continued on the up-grade. The close was firm 1 1/2 to 1 3/4c net higher, May 61 1/2.

OATS—Oats started 1/2c off to 1/2c advance, May 57 1/2 and later showed an upturn all around. PROVISIONS—Higher quotations on hogs were reflected in provisions.

CHICAGO DAIRY.
CHICAGO—Butter higher, creamery extras 35, firsts 34 1/2, seconds 31 1/2, standards 35. Eggs higher, receipts 9,282 cases firsts 22 1/2, ordinary firsts 21 1/2, miscellaneous 21 1/2.

Emmons to Speak
at Geology Dinner
Prof. W. H. Emmons, of the geology department at the University of Minnesota, will give an address before the Geology club on the subject of "Prospects in Geological Work" at an informal dinner to-night at the University club.

Professor Emmons is a specialist on economic geology and is now giving a series of lectures at Science hall on the "Secondary Enrichment of Ore Deposits," with special treatises for copper, silver, and every afternoon.

"The dinner at the University club will be of the open forum type, so that all students may ask any questions on the practical use of geology as a profession," said H. R. Aldrich, president of the club. "The students who are taking specialized work in geology and are considering, or have considered, carrying out their work as a profession are all welcome at the meeting. It is the purpose of the club to stimulate professional interest in geology, and Professor Emmons is the one who can clear up any questions you may have to ask on the subject."

JUDGE A. C. HOPPMANN

To the Voters of Dane County:
I am a candidate for Senior Judge of the Superior Court. James H. Fenney is the only candidate against me.

Six years ago I gave my reasons for becoming a candidate and promised to make that court more useful to the people and help the overcrowded condition of the Circuit Court. I have tried faithfully to keep my promise. The following record will show the work done by me during the past five years in comparison with the work done the five years before:

Criminal cases disposed of by me in five years 4534
Criminal cases disposed of in five years before 3738
Civil cases disposed of by me in five years 813
Civil cases disposed of in the five years before 255
Juvenile cases disposed of by me in five years 492
Juvenile cases disposed of in the five years before 118
Mother's Pension cases disposed of by me in five years 417
Mother's Pension cases disposed of in five years before none

The Mother's Pension law was not in force the first five years. It will be seen that I have disposed of 588 more civil cases alone than was disposed of in the five years before. I relieved the crowded condition of the Circuit Court of just that many cases. Each civil case may take from one hour to one week. With this help on my part the Circuit Court is still over 300 cases behind.

In addition to the above, I voluntarily conducted a Domestic Relations Court. Here I took up boys' and girls' cases with their parents, and I also reconciled differences between married people. No record is kept of these cases, but it is safe to say that I had an average of at least one such case every day, which in five years would amount to over 1500 cases. These matters take from one-half to three hours each. No such court was held before I started. By doing this additional work I honestly believe that I have saved many boys and girls from getting into serious trouble, or, possibly, having criminal careers, and I believe have saved many divorces. In order to accomplish the above work I have spent many, many evenings and many Sundays working in the court house.

To prevent mistakes, troubles, and the commission of crimes by the young people I have spoken at least 100 times during the last five years at community meetings, school houses, and churches in Dane County without one penny of compensation, and always at my own expense. I have had many more requests, but my work prevented me from complying.

There are two classes of people who should know after six years of observation whether I deserve to be re-elected or not. These are the members of the County Board and the Lawyers. At the January meeting of the County Board 61 members, practically every member of the County Board, signed my nomination paper. At the Dane county Bar Primary in January, 75 out of 77 lawyers who voted, cast their ballots for my endorsement.

In all the cases I have had, less than 10 appeals were taken from my decisions, and the Supreme Court approved my judgment in over one-half of the 10 cases. With six years of experience as judge I believe I can render still better service to the people in the future. Upon the above record of service and upon the above endorsement I base my candidacy.

My work makes it impossible for me to get out and make a campaign for re-election. I must, therefore, rely upon my friends in the country and in the city to do that for me. I have tried to give only a brief statement of facts and I trust it will not be misconstrued as self-praise on my part, for that is farthest from my mind.

In conclusion I am going to ask you to determine who you will vote for on the broad basis of the Golden Rule, to-wit: Give me the consideration which you would have desired under similar circumstances.

Respectfully submitted,
August C. Hoppmann

The Golden Girl

A STORY OF GYPSY LOVE

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

ROGER CALLS.

It was the very next evening after Alfonso's visit to Shadow-lawn that Ilona was upset to discover, when she was dressing for dinner, that a new and lovely pearl pendant of hers was missing plus the little gold ring that Miguel had given her on her 15th birthday. And as the loss of the pearl was, it seemed insignificant as compared to that of losing the simple band, with its single turquois, so fraught with tender memories of the past which she had treasured so carefully.

In her consternation the excited girl called to her family, as soon as she made the discovery and her mother and father came running into her room, much exercised at the alarm in her voice.

Mr. Cameron fussed and fumed around the room, when he heard what had happened and swore that he'd have every nigger on the place searched, if the pearl was not found by morning. It had been his last gift to his daughter and he had chosen it most carefully as well as paid a small fortune for it.

His wife did her best to pour oil on the troubled waters, by assuring them that neither of the jewels could possibly be far as no one had been in the house that day save the family and it was quite out of the question that any one from the outside could have been in Ilona's bedroom for she herself had been on that same floor all day.

Sad at heart at her loss Ilona dressed and tried to keep up her spirits by assuring herself over and over again that the trinkets would surely turn up and there was no need to really grieve about them, after all. She was looking her prettiest that night, and feeling for the first time almost perfectly happy in the fact that she was exquisitely dressed from head to foot. The shimmering folds of her evening gown, the glint of her hair and the stary gleam to her eyes were more than enough to set the heart of young Roger Caball, a dancing, when he called, formally and for the first time since the famous evening when he had cornered Ilona and held her against the young man world of Wellington.

Even her mother was properly impressed when Roger was announced, for she knew that he must have made the trip from Atlanta especially to see the girl, and after all it was Atlanta and a test. She patted her daughter's shoulders lovingly as she tripped away, admonishing her in those honeyed tones of hers, "not to forget that he was a most charming young man and Atlanta an awfully long distance away. There were not many men who would—" but with a nod and a light laugh of understanding, Ilona placed her finger on her lips and ran out of the room, before she could finish her sentence.

He looked rather attractive, she found herself thinking as she slipped into the room and saw him loom up, clean-cut, comme-il-faut, and possessive in his manner towards her, as soon as she appeared, manly, healthy, aggressive almost, and with promises in his blue eyes, when they rested on her. A glorious sample of a man, without doubt, but too correct, was what she kept thinking.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

It took Jim only a few seconds to reach the back door where Tom was and there in the soft mud he saw plainly the perfect footprints of a goat and burro, and also those of a cat. But no cat tracks did he see. That was not strange, as Button had walked on some straw until near a fence and then had run along on the top of that as far as it went, which carried him away from the stable and across a wide lot.

"No use stoppin' to look for that cat's tracks," said Jim, "for you may be sure that where the others are, there he is too."

So now like two setter dogs on the trail of a bird they followed the trail which took them straight to the woods. Here, search as they would, they could find no tracks of any kind, for the wet fallen leaves and long grass hid all footprints.

"See if we can't tell by the broken twigs on the bushes and the trampled down grass," said Tom, "if they have not passed this way."

"Happy thought," said Jim. "Of course the goat and burro would nibble at the tender green leaves and break off branches to chew as they went along."

Sure enough that is just what they had done, for the bushes showed plainly, where twigs had been bitten or pulled off.

The kidnapers followed the trail in this way until they came to a little stream and here on its soft, sandy border they found tracks of a goat, burro, dog and cat.

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" said Tom, throwing his cap in the air and catching it as it fell, "we are on their track!"

Being assured that they were following the right trail, they walked faster and faster, hoping to catch up with the animals at every turn, but no matter how fast they went they did not overtake them and they soon found they had traveled many miles without seeing hide or hair of them. Yes, they had seen tufts of hair on many bushes, for Billy's and Bettina's sides had brushed against the thorns and briars and they had pulled out little tufts of hair.

"How much farther do you suppose those blamed animals could have gone?" at last asked Jim in a disgusted tone.

"They must have kept on a trot all the time to get such a start of us, or else they started early in the evening and have been traveling all night. As it is, we can't catch them now and get back to town in time for the performance."

"Gee! That's so!" exclaimed Jim. "We had better not go back without them, but just let the people think we all lit out together."

It's a shame, though, to have to lose all that money," said Tom, with a shake of his head. "Come on, let's hurry. I see the smoke from a farmhouse rising over the treetops. Perhaps they've stopped there."

The kidnapers hurried on, and when they came nearer to the house, they hid in ambush to watch for the animals.

(Tomorrow's story will tell how the men found Billy and his friends.)

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think a woman ought to stay with a man who will drive her children from home? My husband packed the clothes of my 12-year-old girl and made her take them and go, and she hasn't any father and no people to go to. His excuse was she did not do enough work, but that was not it; he just doesn't want her and a smaller child of mine to eat anything. He never has spoken a good word to either of them since we have been married, but before we were married he was very kind to them. My heart has been broken and my health ruined over seeing my children mistreated.

Don't you think God would help me if I should take my children and try to make a home for them? I believe there would be some way for us to live. Maybe my health would get better and I could work. My husband's mother told him he ought not have to keep my children, but he knew I had them before we married, and it is a sure thing I never promised to give them up. I would not have married a man who would ask me to give them up and now I don't feel like living with him and give my children up.

WORRIED MOTHER.

Our man-made laws only too often fail to protect a mother in your position. I believe, however, that if you complained about your husband to the probate court he would be made to understand that your children are not to be sent away. He married you knowing that you had children and he assumed the obligation of providing for them as long as you choose to live with him.

Lay your plans for the future before you break away from your husband, if you decide upon that course. It might be that through advertising you could secure a position as housekeeper where you would be allowed to take the children. Know definitely, however, that you will not come to want.

It is no wonder that your health is poor since you are forced to live in inharmous and to fight constantly for the interests of your children.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 32 years old and have been married twice. I am now divorced and going with a fellow 23 years old. I have been going with him over a year. I am sick most of the time and not able to work. My parents are poor and have a large family to take care of.

This fellow I go with wants to help me out and pay my doctor bill. He thinks a great deal of me. He won't go any place unless I am able to go with him. He won't even speak to his old girl friends, the ones with whom he used to keep company, because he is afraid he will make me angry at him. He is awfully good to me, but is awfully jealous of me. He does not want me to go any place without him.

Is it all right for him to help me and pay my doctor bill?

He is a good fellow to work and provided well and made a good home for his wife. She is dead and has been for two years. Do you think it would be all right for me to marry him? GRAY EYES.

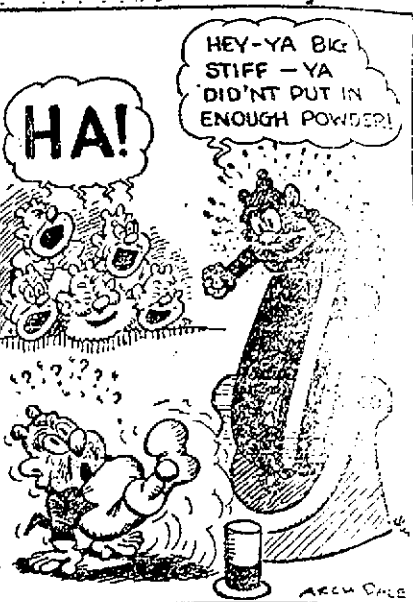

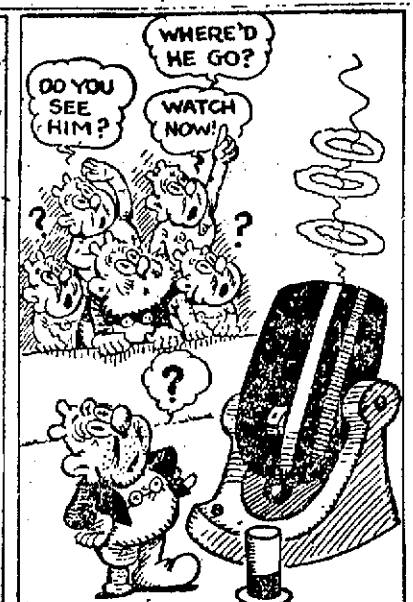

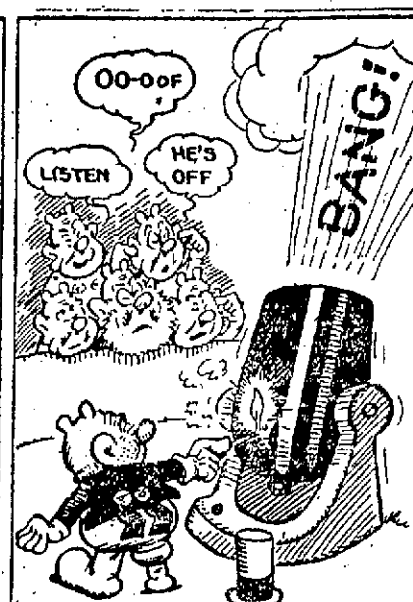

No, it would not be right for you to let the man pay your doctor bill. I would advise you to go to a free dispensary where you would have good attention and every chance of being cured.

Do not marry unless you are restored to good health, or unless you are assured by a physician that your ailments would not impair the health of your husband. You must be unselfish in this matter and consider first the man who offers to take care of you.

Madison Teams Leave For Tournament Today; Oregon and Ft. Atkinson Are Out

Drawing Will Be Held This Noon At Meet

Two City Teams Entered in Tournament; Play at Whitewater

WHITWATER, Wis.—The Oregon and Fort Atkinson high school basketball teams entered in the annual Whitewater district tournament on March 16, 17, 18, withdrew from the tournament on Wednesday. Oregon has played a schedule this year, and because of the players being younger than the average high school player, the school was deemed inadvisable to withdraw. High school authorities at Oregon thought that the strain of a three-day tournament would be too much for the players.

Fort Atkinson withdrew from the tournament. The withdrawals were received at the office of the Normal school Wednesday morning.

Richmond High school has been secured to replace Oregon and Fort Atkinson on the list.

Madison teams leave this morning. The drawing for places will take place this noon. With an even break of luck Madison high school should be among the teams surviving on Saturday morning, and some have it doped out that the Yellow and Black squad will be meeting the Wisconsin High school quint for the district title.

Constant practice is keeping both Madison teams in the pink of condition. The play will begin this afternoon about 3 o'clock. The games will continue tonight, Friday and Saturday.

Roundy Says: The New Football Rule Seems to Me About 90 percent Tommyrot; the Coaches Will be in for Some Razzing

Johnnie Coulon, former bantam champion of the world will put on his act at the Orpheum starting tonight. He weighs but 110 pounds but has not been lifted off his feet by the strongest men in the world.

His stunt is clear and in the open. He puts one of his little fingers on a certain gland on your neck and then you can go to it.

Some of the local boxers and Dometral the local wrestler will try to lift Coulon. The local celebrities will be at the first show Friday night.

Coulon was the undisputed bantam king of the world for a long time. He was about the craftiest ring general that the 110 pound class ever saw.

The new football rule that was adopted last week making the team that scores a touchdown take the ball out on the 5 yard line and make the extra point by drop kick, or place kick, end-run, forward-pass or skirt the end for the needed point to make the total 7 is getting a lot of different views.

My view is this, that there will be more tie games than ever before and the game has been changed enough without changing the scoring system. The change is the worst thing that will go to destroy the game that has ever been passed by the rules committee.

Last Saturday a bunch of football coaches got together in N. Y. and the sense, if any, of the meeting was that goal from touch-down be put out of business and put the ball in play on the 15 yard line for one down only on which the offense might attempt to score the lone point by kick, run or pass.

The idea is about 90 percent Tommyrot. What quarterback would call for a running play with 15 yards to gain on a single down? Also with the ball in scrimmage on the 15 yard line the kicker would go back at least 10 yards for his effort. Since when is a goal from the 25 yard line worth only one point?

What is to prevent the defense from mashing nearly all its men on the line of scrimmage against seven proscribed by the rules of the team in possession of the ball?

The coaches will come in for the panning of their life on this play and the new rule will raise red with the man calling signals. If the play fails for the extra point he will be blamed with the judgment of error, and the coach will have to prime a kicker just for this purpose and when he is sent in to get the extra point and fails then the crowd will give the coach some mean razzing for not leaving the team that scored the touch-down make the extra point.

And on this extra point to be scored the playing will be the fiercest of the whole game to prevent it from being scored. And you might lose a star player on that one play after working so hard to make the touchdown. Lots of roundy stuff can be done while officials are looking so close to see if goal was made on the legged play.

The difference between pros and amateurs is this: The same as between prose and poetry. The poetry guys starve to death.

The local Y. M. C. A. will be a busy place for three days fighting for the right to go to Milwaukee to earn the way to the champions of Wisconsin in the caging game.

There are three strong teams entered—the Watertown five, the Baraboo five and the local Firestone team, with Sid Tallard added to the line up. The Firestones are due to at least play in the finals Saturday night if my dope runs true.

Cully Gabbie, Firestone center, is in the midst of a scoring streak. He has been caging all the way from 6 to 9 baskets per game and with Tallard to work with as a new partner then keep your eyes on these two birds in this meet.

There is a report going around that Chuck Rider will not use Tallard as a regular. The report must not carry much weight as Chuck must know more basket ball than that in his years of seeing and playing the game.

Dempsey Decides to Make Tour in Europe

NEW YORK—Jack Dempsey has finally decided to take a hurry at European touring, according to announcement made here on Wednesday. The champion plans to sail within a month.

Several lesser titleholders have found trips abroad unprofitable propositions, but the latest lure for Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, is a project by C. B. Cochran, fight promoter, to stage a return match with Georges Carpentier, in one of the great natural football enclosures of Britain, which are capable of giving crowds of 150,000 a view of the ring.

Tank Men to Clash In Big Ten Try-outs

Badgers Doped to Have Chance of Victory if Points Divided

Coach Joe Steinbauer departed for Chicago yesterday with his flock of swimming stars to enter the trials for the big conference meet, which begins today.

The Badgers will enter the meet favorites over the other teams, but this advantage will be so slight that to win, Steinbauer's men will have to go better than they have ever gone before. Chicago, Minnesota, Northwestern and Illinois will all have something to say about the outcome and the Badgers will have to fight every inch of the way.

Blinks and Bennett Will Battle
The relay event, the fight on the program, will bring out four main contestants, with Chicago, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Wisconsin as the main figures. There is little possibility of a "dark horse" cropping up and taking a first place in this event. Northwestern, by virtue of her win over the Badger quartet, should enter the race a slight favorite over Wisconsin.

Chicago and Minnesota both have strong teams and should figure, but the big fight should be between Northwestern and Wisconsin. There are many fans who claim that the Northwestern victory over the Wisconsin splashes was a fluke and that the real worth of the teams will be brought out fully when they meet this week.

The group of events that will arouse the greatest enthusiasm and interest will be the 40, 100, and 220-yard swims, in which two of the greatest swimmers who have ever graced a conference meet will take part. "Johnny" Bennett '24, of Wisconsin, and Blinks of Chicago are the two men upon whom the eyes of all conference fans will turn during the meet. The Wisconsin lad is entering his first big conference meet and he enters it with enough experience to match the champion Blinks. Blinks is out to keep his title as conference champion in these three distances and he will put up a stiff argument before bowing in defeat before another conference swimmer. Bennett is regarded by the dopsters as the logical man to unseat the champ in at least one of the distances.

Racine Keglers Roll High in A. B. C. Meet

TOLEDO, O.—More money for Wisconsin. Racine bowlers on Wednesday knocked off counts in the two man and singles events of the American Bowling congress tournament that place them in line for choice chunks of the $50,000 prize fund.

Three of the five pairs qualified in the doubles, while two of ten shooters in the singles hit their way into the dough. B. Barth and E. Keller totaled 1,224. F. Hengst and C. Bertram, 1,161. D. Breits and A. Fischer, 1,132. The singles found G. Herzog the leader with a 630, while Breits waxed at the finish with a 580.

Allegheny Social No. 2 of Pittsburgh, on the first squad Wednesday night, set a single game record for the present tournament with a score of 1,070, hung up in the final game. The former high game was 1,067, made by one of the Hamilton clubs of Chicago several days ago.

New Record for 60-Foot Plunge Made

MIDDLETON, Conn.—N. T. Guernsey of New York, a member of the championship Yale swimming team established a new inter-collegiate record for the 60-foot plunge in the meet with Wesleyan University. His time was 15 3-5 seconds. The former record was 16 2-5, held by F. J. Meagher, University of Chicago.

Templin to Wrestle in Conference Meet

Templin, who will be Wisconsin's only representative in the conference wrestling meet here this week-end, is working strenuously in preparation for the final test of the season. The star Badger grappler has won three out of his four meets of the year, losing one bout by a very close decision.

Legion Meets Baraboo Team Here Tonight

The American Legion basketball team of Madison will meet Company G five of Baraboo tonight in the city Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at 8 o'clock, to start the 1922 Madison district amateur basketball tournament.

Sum Prairie's basketball quint will take on the 4C college team of Madison in the second game tonight. Three games will be played tomorrow night, bringing together Stoughton and St. Georges; Firestone Tires and Watertown; Black Earth and Arena. The five winners of these contests will draw lots, which will result in four of them engaging in the semi-finals, while the fifth draws a "bye" or a rest ticket. The two winners then will draw with the team which did not play for a "bye." The two teams, whose lot it is to play, will take the floor. The winners then will meet the five which did not play for the championship of the district.

Roundy Can't Lift Coulon

Roundy Coughlin, sporting writers of Madison papers, and some 15 or 20 boxing and wrestling fans and devotees of the manly art of defense will be guests of the management of the Orpheum theater Friday night at the first performance and will attempt to lift the famous Johnny Coulon, former world's bantamweight champion boxer, who is appearing in a vaudeville act here.

"The Man Who Cannot Be Lifted," is the title Johnny Coulon has won since the war ended his career in the U. S. army overseas. It's a mystery which has not been solved by the greatest physicians in the country. Here's how it's done: Scene 1—Garden plot—Enter Johnny Coulon. Roundy Coughlin and a committee of five will be seated about him on the stage.

Says Roundy: "Say, Johnny, I hear you're bragging you can't be lifted off the floor."

"You got it straight," returns Coulon. "Can you beat that?" Roundy chorles to the chorus of sport writers and fans on the stage.

"Umph—umph," Roundy grunts, as he tugs in vain to lift Johnny off the floor.

"Umph—umph. Again he fails. Others are permitted to try it, but the strongest men fail to budge Johnny even so much as a sixteenth of an inch from the floor. It's not a bluff—it's a secret, which anyone can work, if he gets the same contact with his opponent's body as does Coulon.

It's a trick Coulon learned in Europe during the war, and it is one which baffled Cadine, the strong man of the Olympic games, Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight boxer, as well as King

Track Men to Leave Friday For Big Meet

Prelims to Be Held at Northwestern Gym; 10 Teams Compete

Wisconsin's entrants in preliminary heats of two races will leave tomorrow morning to compete in the annual Big Ten indoor track meet which will be held in Patten gym, Evanston, on Friday and Saturday nights. Prelims are scheduled in both the quarter and half mile runs. The 440-yard dash will be run off at 7:45 and the half is carded for 8:45.

Badger speedsters, who have been entered in these events are: Spetz, Johnson, McCandless, and Ellinson in the quarter; Ramsay, Holfeld, and Wade in the half.

Ten Teams Will Compete
The class of track athletes in the Mid-West will clash when representatives from ten Conference institutions line up for their events at the annual indoor track meet.

Sprinters who can turn the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds have been entered. Iowa will be strong in the dashes, with Brookings and Wilson entered. Brookings won the century and the 440-yard sprint when Iowa lost to Wisconsin last Saturday. He is the "find" of the season and his work in dual meets and at the Illinois relays has been nothing short of sensational. Wilson is a consistent runner who can be counted upon to place. Spetz, Capt. "AP" Knollin, and Ellinson are Wisconsin men entered in the sprints.

Other good short-distance racers are Ayres and Nagle, Illinois; Kelly, Burke, Simmons, Michigan; Hooroad, Ohio; and Grammel, Northwestern. Burke and Simmons have had previous experience in Big Ten meets, and Coach "Steve" Farley expects them to aid in putting Michigan up among the leaders.

GENTLEMEN: Your committee on information to whom was referred the communication from the Dane County Bar Association, relative to the district attorney's office, met at the Dane county courthouse, January 25, 1922, and after a careful consideration of the question, your committee begs leave to report as follows:

In view of the fact that a movement seems to have been set on foot for the necessary legislation to remove the office of district attorney from the elective list of county officers and make the same appointive by the county board.

And in view of the further fact that your county claims committee is now empowered to furnish to the district attorney of Dane county such legal assistance as shall from time to time be found necessary.

Your committee does not find that a change is imperative at this time, and therefore recommends that no change be made in the compensation of the district attorney for the ensuing term. Adopted.

Mr. Sommers, chairman of the committee on settlement with county officers, presented the following report:

GENTLEMEN: Your committee on settlement with county officers beg leave to submit the following report: We met at the courthouse, December 31, 1921, at the close of business for that day and counted the funds of Dane county in the hands of the county treasurer at the end of the fourth quarter for the year 1921, and found the balance on hand to be $267,758.87.

We have compared all tax sales and receipts, and found them all correctly entered and properly accounted for.

We have examined the books of the highway commissioner and found them correct, and all orders properly accounted for. The disbursements from this office for the fourth quarter of 1921 were $196,628.50.

We have examined the issue of circuit, superior and juvenile court certificates and found them correct and properly accounted for.

The Dane County Humane Society presented the following petition:

GENTLEMEN: The Dane County Humane Society respectfully petition your honorable body for a hearing on the resolution presented by Supervisor Wm. P. Whalen Tuesday evening.

We do not ask, nor expect, any special consideration, we only ask an opportunity to be heard. If, after such hearing, the resolution does not receive your approval we will try to be satisfied.

We are well convinced that every member of your board is in full sympathy with the work the Humane Society is doing, but we feel that some misunderstanding exists as to the manner in which the work is conducted; the source of income of the society; the way in which it is expended, etc. Whether or not an appropriation is ever granted the society by your board we can never feel quite satisfied unless we have had an opportunity to present our case to you, briefly.

We do not request or demand anything, we ask a favor, a chance to plead for those that cannot plead for themselves. Will you grant it?

Respectfully yours,

Mrs. M. Kirtleson, President.

Mr. Farness, chairman of the committee on county buildings, presented the following report:

GENTLEMEN: Your committee to whom was referred the resolution of Mr. Cady at the November session, referring to the question of providing room for the new court, have had the same under consideration and beg leave to report as follows:

Your committee met on December 28th, together with Judges Stevens and Hoppman, the county chairman and Mr. Claude, of Claude and Starck, architects.

It was then decided that there were two ways, we could provide more room, one was to remodel the attic of the courthouse, and the other was to build a new annex on the southeast side of the courthouse on the ground recently purchased by the county. This new annex would be connected to the courthouse by corridors on each floor.

It was further decided to have the architect inspect the present courthouse and see what would be necessary to do in order to accommodate the needs of the county for some time to come, also to make a complete report to the committee as to costs, etc., on both these plans, which has all been done, and the architect's report is as follows:

GENTLEMEN: Following your instructions, to inspect the present courthouse, and see what would be necessary and possible to do in the way of remodeling this building in such manner as to accommodate the circuit court and related offices, we beg to report as follows:

We have thoroughly gone over this building and plans and find that it would be necessary to build up rear wall and walls at end of old circuit court room, (including court reporter's room and library), to a height of about twenty-four feet above cornice line. Remove one of the large trusses supporting court room ceiling, and roof and support the floor in attic by means of plate girders, the length of circuit court room. Windows would have to be changed in the tower to make this space available for the judge's chambers. Dormers would have to be built in the roof to get light for reporters' rooms, toilets, jury rooms, etc. The elevator would have to be extended to this floor, a new stair would have to be built from the new court room floor to the floor below the stairs, in which case, it would take up space required for the judge's chamber, or space over present court reporter's room, using this space and taking out space required for jury and lawyers' rooms in upper floor, or build a fire escape from top to bottom of the building on the outside. All of this will require a great deal of cutting, fitting, and tearing out of existing work, all material will have to be hoisted to the top floor at very considerable expense. The steel girders necessary to support floor would have to be built up in sections and riveted together in the space between the present courthouse ceiling and attic floor. This would be very slow work, and a large amount of scaffolding would be necessary, both to support girders and to protect ceiling. All structural iron and steel in the building would have to be fire proofed; this includes all exposed steel in roof construction. The entire electric wiring of building would have to be gone over and made to comply with present underwriters' rules for first class fire proof construction. Finally during the progress of this work the roof on circuit court room would have to be removed and either housed in, at a large expense, or risk taken of water causing thousands of dollars damages in the circuit court and adjoining rooms. When the above mentioned work was completed, the attic would be ready to be divided into the rooms desired, and could be made to accommodate the circuit court, judge, jury, clerk, reporters, and lawyers' rooms, but would not afford any of the much needed enlarging and rearranging of the present courthouse, records, county clerk, county treasurer, supervisors, assessor of incomes, district attorney, surveyor and others.

While it is impossible to make anything like an accurate estimate of cost in work of this nature, it is readily seen that a very large proportion of the cost would consist of labor made necessary to overcome the disadvantages of working over the old building and all such work is necessarily thrown away in the sense that no value will be received for it. Taking this into consideration, we do not believe that the changes that we have made for less than $50,000, and might cost considerably more than this sum. Taking all of the above considerations in view, we do not believe it wise or good economy to spend so much money in alterations and changes in the old building.

1st. Because of the excessive cost of such changes.

2nd. Because when completed they would only be a makeshift.

3rd. It would be only a matter of a year or two before you would be confronted by the necessity of erecting a new building to house the other officers and records that are not provided for in this plan.

NEW BUILDING

Having considered what could be done in the old, it remains to be seen what can be done by building a complete new building to house all of the needs of the county for the next thirty or forty years and all the cost of such a building.

You already have the necessary land for this purpose and the location and size of this property at once suggests how such a building should be planned.

1st. To provide sufficient room for the new court, supervisors and other officers.

2nd. To so connect the new building to the old in such a manner as to afford convenient access from one building to the other, and at the same time provide good light in both buildings, and to cause the minimum expense in remodeling the old courthouse.

The property adjoining the present courthouse is one hundred and one feet wide from rear of circuit court room wall to the southeast lot line and the full length of the courthouse property. We have held numerous conferences with members of your committee and with the judges, assessors of incomes, highway commission, and other county officers, and from the data so acquired, we find that it will be necessary to design a building one hundred feet long and averaging fifty-four feet in width, placed parallel to the present courthouse and connected to it by means of a corridor. The location of this corridor has been given careful consideration and we decided that it should be cut through from the main corridor of the courthouse on first story through the probate clerk's office, across a court twenty to twenty-three feet wide and entering the new building on the side near the center. In the second story, this passage would extend through the present circuit court reporter's office, library, and waiting room. In this way no important rooms will be disturbed. The space between passage and probate clerk's office will serve as a room for the treasurer, and the county judge's room will be given the present treasurer's room, and the county judge's room will be given to the sheriff. A stairway is provided in this corridor between the old and new building. The new building is designed to meet the following needs:

Mezzanine Floor. Entrance, surveyor, highway commission, drainage commission, taxists, corridor to old courthouse. From corridor to end of building the space to be occupied by the assessor of incomes.

First Floor. County court, judge's private office, reporter's room, record room, clerk's room, waiting room. From corridor to end of building the space to be occupied by the supervisors' room. This room to be used when necessary by the county judge.

Second Floor. The connecting corridor will lead directly to the circuit court room, at the end of this corridor, will be the judge's private office. Adjoining this, the clerk of courts rooms, and record room, reporter's room, lawyers' room and toilets for men and women. A stairway will lead directly from the court room to jury rooms which occupy part of a mezzanine floor between circuit court floor and ceiling. Another stairway leads from clerk's room to the record room on the same floor and no access will be permitted to record room except through clerk's office. The circuit court room will be entirely lighted from above, except for a few ventilating windows in the wall toward the old court house.

Mezzanine Floor. This floor will be taken up with two jury rooms with toilets for both sexes, a rest room for women jurors, and also one for men. With the court record room, the balance of this floor will be included in the upper part of circuit court room.

Construction. It is proposed to erect an entirely fire proof building of the most modern type. The general design to be what is known as the skeleton reinforced concrete type of construction on which all walls, partitions and floors are supported on concrete columns and girders, except the large girders over the supervisors' room and circuit court room; these to be steel supported on steel columns and thoroughly fire proofed. The floors and roof to be reinforced concrete joist with tile fillers. Partitions to be tile, exterior walls tile faced with suitable brick. Trimings, cornices, etc., to be terra cotta. This construction will permit of the greatest latitude in moving partitions and rearranging rooms. Should it become necessary in the future, and at the least possible cost. Heating to be a combination of blast and direct steam, automatically regulated. Plumbing to be modern in every respect. Lighting, both natural and artificial, has been given careful attention. Interior finish to be oak or other suitable hardwood. Floors to be tile, or terrazzo in corridors and toilets and concrete with mastic or battleship linoleum in offices.

Design. It seems neither practical or desirable to carry out the design of the old courthouse. We have therefore designed a building that will be complete in itself and thoroughly adapted to the need of the plan and at the same time, we have considered the colors of brick and terra cotta that will not clash with colors of old building and have where possible, carried out water table and cornice lines described at $135,000.

Cost. We estimate the cost of this building as described at $135,000. This amount having been arrived at by detailed estimates and comparisons with buildings of similar construction, design, and requirements, and after consultation with reliable contractors, we believe that this amount will fully cover the cost.

Finally. Our study of the requirements of the various departments has convinced us that there is a very real need of all the room we have provided for,

Foul or profane language shall not be used over the wire connected with subscriber's instrument, nor shall advertisements be attached to any of the said equipment. It is understood and agreed that all said equipment shall be and remain the property of the company, and is placed only for the purposes herein stated; and that no instruments, wires or thing of any kind other than those furnished by the company shall be connected or maintained in connection with the said equipment.

The company does not guarantee the uninterrupted working of any of said equipment, and in case communication is interrupted from any cause whatever, the only liability of the company shall be to abate the payment of the charges herein provided, for the time such interruption continues, after twenty-four hours' written notice thereof to the company.

The said equipment can be moved from one place to another only by the company, and when so moved upon the request of the subscriber he is to pay the company's charge therefor; and if the location to which the same is moved is such a distance or radius from the office with which the subscriber's station is connected that the rate for the exchange service would, according to the company's established charge for such service, be thereby increased or diminished, the subscriber shall, after such removal, pay the company's established charge or rate, for service at such new location.

When a connection is requested and made with any telephone station, the charge provided for in this contract will be made whether the particular person desired be reached or not.

The company shall have the right to attach the necessary equipment to the premises of the subscriber for the purpose of furnishing him service hereunder, and shall at all reasonable times have the right to enter the premises of the subscriber to inspect or repair any of said equipment, or to remove the same upon the termination of the subscriber's right hereunder.

In consideration of the payment of the sum herein specified to be paid, the company shall, during the continuance of this contract, furnish the subscriber, upon call therefor, subject to the rules and regulations of the company and the terms and conditions herein mentioned, telephonic connections for local calls with the stations of subscribers whose instruments are at the time of such call connected by wire, and in operation with the exchange with which the station hereby contracted for is to be connected. This sum does not include charges for messenger or toll line service, or the use of public pay stations, and the subscriber agrees in consideration of the company furnishing exchange, messenger and toll line service at such station, that he will pay promptly upon demand at the company's rates the bills and charges for all messenger and toll line service furnished anyone upon call from this station, or incoming messages, on which payment is assumed by anyone at this station.

In case there be any other subscriber or subscribers on the same line with the subscriber hereto, the subscriber hereto shall not attempt to make use of the telephone while any other subscriber is using the line, and shall not in any way interfere with any other subscriber's use of the service, either by removing the receiver, interrupting the conversation or in any other way.

Upon non-payment of any sum due, or any use or removal of the said equipment, or any of it, contrary hereto, the company may without notice terminate the subscriber's rights hereunder immediately, and sever his connection and remove the said equipment, and in such case the subscriber shall pay the same amount as if he had voluntarily terminated this contract before the expiration of the term.

The company reserves the right to require the subscriber to keep on deposit with it, a sum not exceeding ten dollars, to guarantee the payment of bills rendered under this contract.

A local message is a communication of five minutes, or less duration between subscribers' stations within the same exchange limits. When the duration or number of messages from a party line subscribers' station prevents an equitable proportionate use of other subscribers' stations associated on the same line, the company may terminate the contract of such subscriber by giving ten days' written notice.

This contract does not confer on the subscriber the right to have or retain any specific telephone number, as the exigencies of the business may require a change of number at any time. The said equipment, or any of it, is not to be used for performing any part of the work of collecting, transmitting or delivering any message in respect of which any toll or consideration has been or is to be paid to any party other than the company; nor for transmitting market quotations, or news for sale, publication or distribution, or performing any other service in competition with service which the company may undertake to perform. Said telephones are the property of the American Bell Telephone Company, and are constructed and used under its patents, and are leased and licensed by it for the uses above stated, and any use otherwise is also an injury to and an invasion of the said rights of the American Bell Telephone Company, entitling it to an injunction and other legal redress in a suit in its name and behalf, and by taking possession of instruments and lines and collecting rentals from the subscriber, as provided in the contract between the American Bell Telephone Company and said company, which the subscriber agrees to permit and pay.

All the obligations hereof are binding on the subscriber until the instruments shall be delivered to the company or the American Bell Telephone Company, or until, being bound and requested as above specified, and having an opportunity to remove the same, it shall neglect to do so. All words herein referring to the subscriber, or any other user, shall be taken to be of such number and gender as the character of the subscriber and user may require. Adopted.
